

MATEUR SAILORMEN EAGER FOR CRUISE

Members of the District Naval Militia. Getting "Duffie" Completed for Voyage.

Enthusiasm on the part of the men of the District Naval Militia for their summer cruise is increasing as the sailing day approaches. Every member of the various divisions is busily engaged in getting his "duffie" complete, and in the best possible condition for the summer days' cruise.

Some of the men have had the good fortune to visit the Bermudas, and the attraction of visiting foreign lands means much to the amateur tars. When the battleship Rhode Island weighs anchor and steams slowly out of the harbor on the morning of July 6 as many a crowd of young men as may be imagined will be in charge, actually manning the fighting ship. The North Atlantic contingent of the naval militia will be on board before Old Point is reached, and after touching at Lewes, Del., where the headquarters of the militia will be reached by the Pennsylvania and New Jersey battalions, the crew will be turned directly for Bermuda.

All sorts of drills and exercises will be held as the ship pursues her course. The summer division will toll far in the bowels of the ship, over the mighty engines, while the coal-passers, with bent backs and straining muscles, will feed the fires, under the cooling drafts from the ventilators. These men do not seem to mind the arduous work, but instead are impatient to show that they can stoke a furnace as well as the seasoned veterans of the navy whose places they will take.

Congressmen to Attend Picnic of Suffragists

Eight Congressmen, from as many States, and a number of prominent women workers in the suffrage cause are scheduled to make short addresses next Saturday afternoon when a benefit picnic is to be given at Great Falls, under the auspices of the Federal Suffrage Association.

Among the speakers already announced are Congressman Daniel R. Anthony, Jr., of Kansas; John M. Evans, of Montana; Henry T. Hargraves, of North Dakota; William M. Humphreys, of Illinois; Edward Keating, of Colorado; Bird S. McGuire, of Oklahoma; Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming; and John L. Raker, of California.

THE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE

Weather Forecast—Probably fair to clear and Monday; rising temperature. Condition of Potomac—Clouded. Wind—Light and variable.

High Tide—6:08 a. m. and 6:50 p. m.
Low Tide—12:17 a. m. and 1:02 p. m.

Patience on a monument, smiling at the thought. The quotation was appropriately suggested yesterday as on a little trip up the river a scene was observed in one of the jutting rocks above the aqueduct bridge.

There were several persons engaged in the gentle art of old Isaac Walton, sitting on the rocks, with much of the implements strewn about, boxes, lures, packages and cans, seeming to thoroughly enjoy the sport and the sun. Every now and then members of the party would pull in a small fish, and great acclaim, unhook it, and bring the captive along with those which had come before.

But there was one exception to this. A kindly visaged older man was precariously perched on the upper edge of one of the rocks, with cane pole in hand, wore thick-lensed glasses, and his large gray hair was rumpled and sagging. We watched him for about an hour, and as each other member of the party landed a catch, he would lean upon the fortunate one, over the top of his glasses, and congratulate, and remark something to the effect that the fortunes of chance are a fickle reason; I wish that I might catch a bite.

A number of fish were taken by the rest of the group, yet the old man's rod never moved. Upon coming closer, the reason was discovered. The fish he was using poised upright in the water and lay in proper position before him. To younger eyes that which was unapparent to his imperfect vision was plain. His hook was carefully baited with a worm, and whenever he moved it from the water a trailing need completed the illusion of normal life.

His gratitude was as beaming as his smile when the accident was corrected. The fish were valuable—and he soon caught a fish.

A number of small-mouth bass were taken yesterday from Little River, opposite Georgetown, by Mr. J. M. Reynolds, dock at the end of G street northward, large-mouth bass were caught, and seen nice rock.

It was not a particularly good day for the sport yesterday, the fish seemed to be off on a celebration somewhere, or had been up late the night before, and preferred to sulk far down the river. Things were cool.

A party consisting of Messrs. Kidwell, White, Daw, and Darby returned on a four-day trip up the river about halfway between Great Falls and the Chain Bridge, where they have a fishing party. About fifty bass were the reward of their holiday labor, and they expressed themselves as fully satisfied with the rate of portion.

The following places bear the reputation of being good fishing grounds: (1) The Parler, a pool above Bolling Park, straight out from the Chain Bridge, is deep and swift, and the pool bears its name because the fish are said to congregate there late the night before, and prefer to sulk far down the river. Things were cool.
